Changing Times

The heavy burden of influence began to take it's toll.

New leaders emerged, wanting to carry on the legacy of this watershed, it's prestige not completely faded.

Instruction

A Well-Timed Opportunity

Sir Ray Ledgerwood, famous throughout the land for his masterful facilitation skills, alighted upon Colorado, to share his wisdom with the watersheds.

Struggles

But all was not right in the land.
Clashes between the old and the new began to drive a rift in a once united watershed.

Challenges

Obstacles

"It is NOT your job to send out invitations for the watershed meeting.... I don't know who told you to handle that way, but they are wrong, I've been working with the districts over 18 years and we have never sent invitations out to everyone"

The watershed languishes while the differences between the districts reign. The biggest loser in this story will be the people the watershed serves.

Help!

I don't want the watershed to be eaten by the Big Bad Wolf of inaction. How can I help this watershed reconcile it's differences and resume its seat on the throne as the leader of Colorado's watersheds?
